

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

March 23, 2011

Two Elected to the WonderLab Museum Board of Directors

Bloomington, Indiana – LaKisha Hall and Jean Schick have joined the Board of Directors of the WonderLab Museum of Science, Health and Technology in Bloomington. Ms. Hall is an engineer with responsibilities in strategic planning at the Naval Surface Warfare Division, Crane Division. She previously worked for Northrop Grumman, Limited Brands and the Harris Corporation. She holds an MBA from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, as well as engineering degrees from the Georgia Institute of Technology and the University of Maryland at College Park. She moved to Bloomington two years ago with her husband and two young daughters.

Jean Schick is the chair of the Bloomington North Science Department and the science coordinator for the Monroe County Community School Corporation (MCCSC). The Greater Bloomington Chamber of Commerce honored her as the 2008 Monroe County Educator of the Year. She has served as the MCCSC's primary liaison with WonderLab on many projects, including professional development opportunities for teachers, and she has helped develop national science curricula. Ms. Schick holds a bachelor of science in biology and a master's degree in education, both from Indiana University.

Others who serve on the WonderLab Board of Directors are Michael Baker, Sarah Baumgart, Dr. Jean Creek, Andy Cron, Karen Howe Fernandez, Helen Gibbons, Margaret Intons-Peterson, Robert Mann, Laurie Burns McRobbie, Randy Rogers, Scott Smart, Dr. Timothy Steiner, Crystal Taylor-Baker, Donald Turner and John West.

WonderLab, a private 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, is a hands-on science center located in downtown Bloomington. The museum has received numerous awards for its efforts to generate wonder and excitement about science through its engaging exhibits and creative programs. More information is available online at wonderlab.org.

# #